PREFACE

These recordings of the three parts of Clifton Parish Churchyard were made between 1974 and 1986. Bristol Corporation had taken care of the churchyards and although parts of the yard round the site of the old church and the lime walk were in a fairly good condition, the rest were very overgrown. All the gravestones were deteriorating and were subject to vandalism.

It seemed to me that there was an opportunity to make, as nearly as possible, a complete record of the 18th & 19th century churchyard. For this reason the inscriptions are printed in full, although the repetition of "In Memory of" etc is rather monotonous.

The graves were recorded and many details of the missing parts of the inscriptions were filled in from information gained from the parish registers, the 19th century churchyard plan, previous fragmentary recordings, the newpapers and other sources. The inscriptions have been filled in only where this could be done with certainty. Where this was not possible, the information is given below each inscription.

The first volume covers inscriptions from either side of the Lime Walk, these are mainly from the 19th century. The second volume covers inscriptions taken from the area round the old church (Old Yard) and the yard on Lower Clifton Hill, these are mainly 18th century. Interesting comparisons can be made between the 18th and 19th centuries. The epitaphs of the former are more charming and more natural and the tombs on the whole are more simple than those found in the latter century. In the 19th century long texts replace the epitaphs. These are also printed in full but are monotonous to read.

I was unable to see any of the monuments in the church because it was destroyed by enemy action in 1940 and later demolished. Unfortunately it has not been possible to trace what happened to the monuments. Some had been recorded by Ralph Bigland and Roy Hudleston and these have been included in volume 2.

In order to carry out this work it was necessary to transcribe the earlier registers. It is hoped that these transcriptions will also be printed some time in the future.

M.V. Campbell 1987.

ST ANDREW'S PARISH CHURCH.

There is no mention of a church in Clifton in the Domesday Book but A.J.Green-Armytage states that in 1154 the advowson of St Andrew is said to have been given by William of Clifton to the Abbey of St Augustine in Bristol and that the first church was served by the monks of that abbey. Little is known about this church but Mrs Green-Armytage reproduces an undated print of the second church, which shows a small building, at the west end of which is a short square tower with four pinnacles and with a lantern in the centre. In 1654 this church was partially rebuilt and in 1716 an aisle was added. In 1769 the lantern and pinnacles on the tower were removed, the tower was heightened and new pinnacles added. In 1768 a south aisle was built. In spite of all these alterations this church was completely demolished in 1822 a few months after a new church was built slightly to the north. (2) Pennant stone from one of the Hanham quarries was used for parts of this building (21). A privet hedge now marks the outline of the old church which, according to Mrs Green-Armytage, "was literally carried away in carts and buried in the quarry adjoining the last house in Harley Place. This quarry was afterwards purchased by the late Mr Toplis, and is now part of the garden belonging to that house." A picture reproduced in "Concerning Clifton shows the old and new churches standing together before the former was demolished (2)

Joseph Leech visited Clifton Parish Church in September 1843 and some of his observations make interesting reading - "Clifton Church though a parish church, and a church capable of accommodating a large number, is not to any extent the church of the parishioners, the rich and the non-resident occupy the reserved seats and those few that are nominally free are filled by servants ... it is not a church of the poor man; he has no business there in that atmosphere of eau de cologne and bouquet de la Reine ... the poor ought not to be kept out of their own parish church - from the pews by the rich and from the free seats by their powdered footmen" (20). The renting of pews continued until 1940.

Leech's description of the church is reflected in the churchyard. The graves of the poor, as elsewhere, go unrecorded, but Clifton has many grand and elaborate gravestones erected during the first half of the nineteenth century. On reading these inscriptions an interesting picture emerges of the life in Clifton at that time, of the tradesmen, the merchants and the gentry and of the visitors who came from all parts of this country and from Ireland and America.

In 1940 Clifton Parish Church was burnt during the air raids on Bristol and it is fortunate that although they were damaged the registers and other documents were saved.

CLIFTON PARISH CHURCHYARDS

The first Parish Churchyard in Clifton was in the area of the 1654 church, near the present War Memorial. The earliest gravestone still surviving is dated 1731. It was originally in the nave of the old church and it now lies within the hedge outline of this church. Bigland (5) recorded graves older than this, the earliest being 1701 but all of these are now illegible.

The number of residents in Clifton had increased considerably by the last quarter of the 18th century and those who were buried in the churchyard were joined by a large number of visitors to the area, most of whom had come to take the waters of the Hot Well for the benefit of their health. Unfortunately the inscriptions on their tombstones show that the waters were not the cure for which they had been searching. Some were like the Rev. Albert Wrattislaw who died a few hours after arriving in Clifton aged twenty three years. His journey from Rugby in Warwickshire by coach must have been a terrible experience.

In 1779 the vestry applied to the Society of Merchant Venturers for a grant of "a piece of ground at the foot of Honey Pen Hill." This land was adjoining the present Clifton Hill Road which was the main route to Clifton before Queen´s Road was built. At first the Merchants´ Society refused the application but they later agreed when it was pointed out that the old churchyard was a danger to public health.

In 1787 the part of Honey Pen Hill which was the site of a large quarry was bought from the Merchant Venturers and was covered with earth, fenced and consecrated. (1) The first mention in the Parish register of a burial in this churchyard is in November 1788 and the earliest gravestone remaining is dated 1790.

By 1811 this churchyard had also become inadequate and so an adjoining piece of land between the Lower Clifton Hill churchyard and Bellvue was obtained; this had also been part of the quarry. This is the area beyond the dividing wall and the yew trees.

After the 1939-1945 war the name "Strangers´ Burial Ground" was given to the Lower Clifton Hill churchyard because of the large number of strangers buried there. The name is still used but it should be remembered that this was the parish burial ground and was not created especially for the visitors to Clifton.

By about the 1830s yet another area of land was converted into a third burial ground for Clifton. This is the area on either side of the lime walk which runs from the present Victoria Square to the site of the old churches. This walk is said to have been suggested by a gardener named Hockey, while Dr Prowse (2) and Mr Eric Hopkins (3) introduced many of the trees, shrubs and rare plants which have made this church yard so beautiful.

In July 1871 all three churchyards were closed subject to reservations regardeding surviving relatives of those already buried there. After 1950 the care of these churchyards was taken over by the Corporation of Bristol.

MEMORIAL INSCRIPTIONS

The recordings here published are a collection of Memorial Inscriptions taken from inside Clifton Parish Church and from the three churchyards mentioned above.

Some of these memorials were published in the 18th century by Ralph Bigland in his Historical, Monumental and Genealogical Collections Relative to the County of Gloucestershire, 1791. (5) Vere L.Oliver recorded a few graves in 1912 and published some with West Indian connections in "Caribbeana" Vol.II, pp. 371-382 and Vol.III, pp. 41-45. (7)

C. Roy Hudleston M.A., F.S.A. made a number of recordings both inside and outside the church in the 1930s; (6) they are of immense value because some of these graves have now disappeared including all the tablets and memorials inside the church. His records together with the above already mentioned were used when the present complete record was made by the editor between 1974 and 1980. Some of the stones are so damaged that the inscriptions can be made out only with the help of previous recordings and this, unfortunately, applies only to about a quarter of the damaged inscriptions. A few more graves on either side of the lime walk were identified by the churchyard plan and the burial register but the rest will never be deciphered or identified.

The monuments which have been destroyed are MI.0968-0996 and 1143-1235 near the lime walk and in the old yard, 2001 - 2118 from inside the church and 3328-3344 in the churchyard on Lower Clifton Hill.

Ralph Bigland (5) had recorded 1143-1236 and 2001-2059, Vere L. Oliver (7) 2060-2069 and C.R. Hudleston (6) 0968-0996, 2070-2108, 2111, 2113, 2114 and 3328-3344.

Three further inscriptions have been found. The first 2109 was printed in "Memoirs of the Bristol Stage" by Richard Jenkins, 1826. This monument had been erected in the old church and was among those transferred to the new one but is not recorded elsewhere. The second is 2110 printed in "The Picture of Bristol or a Guide to Objects of Curiosity and Interest in Bristol, Clifton. The Hotwells and their Vicinity", by John Evans, 1814. The third inscription, 2112, was recorded by Samuel Rudder (4) in 1779 from Cheltenham Parish Church.

The positions of the graves can be seen in the rough sketch maps at the end of these volumes.

Memorial Inscriptions 3001-3039 are in the 1780 section of the yard on Lower Clifton Hill on the north side of the path. 3040-3104 are on the south side of this same path. The graves in the 1811 part of this yard are 3105-3327.

The graves around the sites of the two churches (old yard) are 1000-1238 and those on either side of the lime walk are, to the west, 0101-0401J and to the east, 0402-0996

The monuments inside the church are numbered 2001-2108. Some of these were transferred from the earlier church to the new one in 1822 but all were subsequently lost when the church was demolished in the 1950s.

Dimensions of the grave stones.

The average size of the Pennant stone slabs is 1840 mm. by 920 mm. Where stones are much larger or smaller and in the case of Head; Table, Chest and "House" Tombs etc. the dimensions are given, except MI.0401F - MI.2114. Most of the headstones had been laid flat on the ground by 1980.

Many of the stone slabs have holes which must have held railings, in some places the stumps of these remain. These would have been removed during the 1939-1945 war.

It is possible that the pennant stone was brought from some of the quarries at Hanham, Stapleton, Frenchay, Downend and Winterbourne. (21)

Notes on the Transcription.

Editor´s notes and explanations are printed below each inscription.

Letters or words in the inscription which are conjectural, owing to the condition of the stones, are shown in square brackets, but to make the text more readable brackets have been omitted where the name, date or age has been confirmed by the burial register or the text confirmed from the Bible.

Italic script is given where used on the inscriptions and Gothic script, when used, is indicated by heavy printing.

The Burial Registers are quoted if they include extra information not given in the grave inscriptions and it should be noted that the places given may not be the homes of those buried. It was the place where the deceased was living at the time of his or her death.

If the burial was not found in the Register either the body lies elsewhere or there was an error with the date of death on the stone. The date of burial is not always given if it took place within three days of death.

If the inscription is completely illegible the reference number has not been printed.

The indexes include names, occupations and places in the notes as well as in the inscriptions.

Landowners are not shown in the occupation index; this information is rarely given and many of those buried would have owned land.

Churchyard Plan.

This plan only covers the areas on either side of the lime walk.

The numbers given in the text immediately after the inscription are associated with this plan, eg 66.6F.13. = page 66 on the photocopy of the plan, Row 6F and the plan number 13. The dates and names of those buried follow.

This plan is not always correct, burials have been omitted, the spelling of some of the names are incorrect and occasionally the dates are wrong.

It will be seen that graves were often used and re-used before and after the stones were erected and these burials were not always for members of the family who had bought the plot.

The rows, as given in the plan, are marked on the sketch maps for the areas on either side of the lime walk.

Sketch Maps

These were made during the recordings, one for the Burial Ground on Clifton Hill, one for the area round the old church and modern war memorial and two each for the areas east and west of the lime walk.

All graves are marked on the sketch maps by their MI. numbers only.

Acknowledgements

The Editor is most grateful to the following:-

Michael Booker for the Latin translations, and for all his help with the text and the corrections.

Ronald Lewen for checking many of the inscriptions with the burial registers.

Sue Clarke for her help with the histogram and the indexes.

Professor R.J.G. Savage and Dr Michael Curtis for their help with the geology of the stones used in the graveyard.

The many people who came for short periods to help during the recording of the two churchyards; in the Strangers´ Burial Ground, Michael, Rosemary, Claire and Heather Booker, Paul Harper, Mark Vyvyan Jones, John Tyler, Christopher Burns Cox and Richard Warner and in the upper churchyard, Mary, Catherine and Emma Dickman, Doreen Pollard, Pat Pope, Susan Giles, Blossom Gow and above all Molly Price and Michael Booker without whose encouragement and support the work of recording and checking might not have been completed.

Correction and additions to the text

LIEUT: GENERAL THOMAS FOSTER
Late of Lyncombe Vale near Bath
Who joined the 1st or Royal Dragoons as Cornet Nov. 4th 1795
And departed this life May 2nd 1843 in the 84th year of his age.
He was a Man in whom were concentrated many rare and valuable Qualities:
A lively Imagination, with sound Judgment:
A superior Intellect without Pedantry:
A Memory as richly stored as it was retentive:
A Liberality untiring in its exercise:
A warmth of Feeling, and a strength of Affection:
Which the infirmities of advancing years could not impair:
While all were attempered and directed by Christian Principle:
Such (But how imperfect is the sketch !) were the Characteristics of him,
To whom his Widow in the sadness of her bereavement,
Has erected this humble tribute of her boundless Admiration

And undying Love.

It is not know why there is a second date. There are no Turner burials in 1838 nor is there any sign that a second slab lay alongside this one, where a further inscription might have been found. It is difficult to make sense of the latin inscription, is this the fault of the writer or the mason ? (Ed)

Pennant stone house tomb with "transepts" and with marble and lead decorations.
There are six large stone kneeling angels, two at the west end holding large leaves ?, and two at the east end touching a spray of lilies which stands between them in a vase. The last two angels stand in the angles of the "transepts", the one on the north side holds a cross and the one on the south holds a cup. On each side along the hipped roof lies a geometric leaf design in lead and on both sides this design is carried on to the "transepts".
Between the angles on the west side is a decorative lead cross, in the centre of which is a circle of red mottled marble (similar to half a ball). On the four points of the cross are placed similar decorations but in grey polished marble.
The decorative cross is repeated on the north and south faces of the "transepts", each cross is 510 mm in height.
The roof of the tomb is also decorated with these marble circles, larger than the ones on the crosses, there is one grey one at the top of each gable, including the "transepts" and a fifth one in red lies between the two on the "transepts".

Mary Clifford, Cotham bur. Dec. 5 1872, 73 yrs. (9)
Miss Clifford is one of those estimable persons who gives up her whole time and endeavours for the good of her fellow-creatures, and has proved herself a worthy daughter of her universally respected father, the late Rev. J.B. Clifford, of St Matthew's Kingsdown.

Whether sitting as a member of the various committees and boards with which she is connected, speaking at meetings for the furtherance of all kinds of good and benevolent objects, comforting the aged and sick, or visiting amongst the poor, Miss Clifford's efforts are ever to alleviate suffering, and to do all the good in her power, and, if possible, leave the world a little better than she found it. Her personality is a striking one, a tall, fine-looking woman, with abundant iron-grey hair, and what you might call a good face, with calm, benevolent expression, just such as should belong to one who devotes her time to "going about doing good. Eleanor Bowen, Hope Sq.
Joseph Bowen, ditto. (9)
Charles Bowen came to Bristol from Ireland in 1832. He returned to Ireland, married Georgiana Lambert and had four children. He returned with his wife and children to Bristol in 1835. It is thought that he came to escape cholera in Cork. After the death of the two children, Eleanor and Joseph (reasons unknown) they travelled abroad in order to get relief from his asthma. He went to France where Georgiana had three more children including a boy who died aged 2 months. They returned to Rugby in England. The two boys entered Rugby School in August 1843 and Charles went on to Cambridge. During this time they lost a 12 year old daughter who is buried in Rugby. In 1849 the whole family left for N.Zealand in the Charlotte Jane, one of four sailing ships which set out from Plymouth at the same time. The boys travelled steerage. The Charlotte Jane arrived at Port Lyttleton near Canterbury after 99 days, 8 - 10 hours before the Randolph, one day before the Sir George Seymour and two weeks before the Cressy. None of the ships had seen each other during the long journey. The ships had not been expected for another month so they camped in the barracks and some people made tents from the sails of the ships. The Settlers bought a patch of land and set up huts made of wooden boards with sails over the top. Charles' home was only pulled down in 1974. Charles and his wife and youngest child, Tissie, then aged 21 travelled back to England in 1864 in the SS GREAT BRITAIN. They left behind the two sons, Charles Christopher who later became a Knight and KCMG in New Zealand for his work in Parliament and died in 1917 aged 86, and the second son, Croasdaile who became a parson and was made Archdeacon of Christchurch in New Zealand, he died suddenly aged 38 in 1870. Tissie died in England in 1915.

Charles Bowen died at Hastings in 1870 but his wife went on to live to the age of 102. It was said that she died from excitement after Mafeking ! (Ref. Miss Bowen, Clifton Wood Court 1982, Georgiana's great granddaughter).

B.G. May 10 1849 - Inquest held at Spring Gardens Inn, Hotwell Rd on Saml Hunter 47 Queen-sq, sailmaker. He fell through the "hatch hole" upon the engine of the steam tug Sampson while coming up the river from Pill nr the Black Rock. He had gone down the river on Wednesday morning to the Holmes with Mr Watkins the Captain of the Pomona and returned to Pill by tug. He intended to walk to Bristol between 1.0 & 2.0 in the morning but was informed that the Samson was about to sail. He went to have a smoke and sat on the rail by the hatchway, he was asked to move while the hatch was opened but on returning to sit again he fell backwards over the fence & down upon the engine. The engine was stopped but too late and he was crushed. He was perfectly sober, was married but had no children. Verdict Crushed to death.

Helen Maria Williams, The Mall bur Sep. 24 1846, 26 yrs. Coroner's Warrant. (9)
B.G. Sep. 1846 - [condensed] Miss Williams was lodging with her mother and sister, Mrs Captain Maitland at the ho. of Mrs Webber, 19 the Mall. rs Maitland's lady's maid gave evidence that the two sisters slept together in the back parlour on the ground floor. She went to bed but before she undressed she was called by Miss Williams whose clothes were alight. A muslin dress hanging on a door had caught fire from a candle and in trying to put this out her own clothes caught fire. The maid threw a rug over her and rushed down stairs to get another when Miss Williams also came downstairs, Mrs Maitland stood at the bedroom door with the baby in her arms crying fire. Miss Williams died the next day.

Wm Cross was essentially what is known as a ladies' man amongst doctors. Of medium height always scrupulously neat in a black frock coat etc. with black satin tie silk hat dark hair eyes and side whiskers he looked the picture of the family doctor and played the part well as he had a large private practice amongst many of the best people of Clifton with whom he was on the most friendly and familiar terms. He was a pleasant chatty sociable man in society where he was a good deal seen and a kind attentive and skilful medical practitioner who enjoyed his life and great popularity with a vast number of people. A hard working industrious man he managed to give his attention single handed to an extensive practice and to get through a lot of work each day and yet find time to take considerable interest in the Fine Arts and Music and was an inveterate collector and no mean judge of articles of bijouterie and curios in general so that when his collections were offered for sale after his death in latter middle life there was much competition to possess some of the many good specimens he had secured in the course of his peregrinations. He was a widower with several children and lived for many years in Caledonian Place Clifton. (15)

Stephen Browning, Cave St, St Pauls by Coroner's Warrant.
Ann Roach, St Pauls, Bristol bur. Sep. 10 1853. (9)
B.G. Nov. 5 1840 - On Mon morning consid. excitement was occasioned in the neighbourhood of St Pauls by a report that a gentleman in Cave St. had cut his throat. The rumour turned out to be true. Sarah Young, servant to Mrs Roach, 6 Cave St. gave evidence. Stephen Browning was Mrs Roach's brother and lived with her. He was 62 or 63 and out of business but formerly in the Customs in London, he was unmarried and in bad health for some time, he could not sleep and thought there were robbers in the house. Dr Jas Prowse gave evidence that he had found the deceased with his throat cut. Verdict, Lunacy.

John Baillie, Half Moon St, Piccadilly, London bur. Feb. 11 1865.
Alexander Baillie, 38 Bury St, bur. Mar. 14 1917, 79 yrs. (9)
Information supplied by I.L.G. Baillie in 1983 and from George Baillie of Norwich (descendant of John Frederic's brother George.) - John Frederic Baillie was 2nd son of Peter Baillie M.P., (d.1812) who was the eldest son of Col. Evan Baillie, 5th Baillie of Dochfour (d.1835), a Bristol M.P and a West Indian Merchant died 1835. Peter Baillie's two brothers were also M.P.s, one James Evan (d.1863) was a Whig M.P for Bristol 1830/34.
Anne Baillie (b.1809) was third daughter of Col. John Baillie M.P. (b.1772) who built Leys Castle 1820-1850.
John Frederic and Anne Baillie had two sons - the elder was John, born 1835. He lived at Leys Castle but was unmarried, his intended wife had died and had been buried at Lamington Chapel, he was also buried there in 1890. The younger son, Alexander Peter Baillie was also unmarried so after his death Leys Castle went out of the family.

Vincent Stuckey Lean was grandson of Samuel Stuckey the founder of Stuckey's Banking Co. and he was the youngest son of James Lean, one of the managers of the Bristol Branch of the Bank. Vincent Stuckey Lean was born at 19 Bellvue, Clifton April 10 1820, after leaving school he worked in Stuckey's Bank in Bristol. Later he was called to the Bar but soon abandoned any intention of practising. He died in 1899 at the Knoll Clevedon, the residence of his niece Miss Julia Lucy Woodward and was buried in the family vault in Clifton Parish Church. He left £50,000 for the further development of the Free Libraries of Bristol, with special regard to the formation and sustenance of a general reference library. The Central Library in College Green was built out of this bequest. Vincent Stuckey Lean's book "Lean's Collectanea : collections of proverbs, (English & foreign) folk lore, superstitions etc. was "Book of the Week" in the Reference Library from Sept. 24-29th. 1934. It was bound in five volumes and was the result of Mr Lean's extensive travels through Europe, America and Africa.(Ref. [Bristol Mirror] Sept. 21st 1834. (6)

O.C. Lane was Mayor of Bristol 1860-1 & Master of the Merchants 1864-5. J.T. Lane was appointed City Treasurer in 1881. (6)
One of the 7 sons of O.C. Lane was Charles Lane who wrote a book called "Rabbits, Cats and Cavies" He was a famous judge at shows, his spare form and kindly round child like face and long white coat were long remembered by elderly people who used to enjoy the Downend Flower Show in the late Lady Cave's time.
One of O.C. Lane's other sons was killed in the Chinese war and another drowned at Oxford where he was an undergraduate. (6)
J. T. Lane was a slightly built, good looking man, closely shaved, wearing moustache only. His amiability and urbanity made him highly popular ...... he was not only Treasurer of one of the most ancient and important Corporations in the Kingdom but also of the Sanitary Authority of that city, and agent for Dr White's Charity He was invited to all the chief dinners, banquets, receptions, garden parties of the city but not being of a convivial turn of mind he much more enjoyed a ramble in the counry or sitting at his fireside. His wife was an Irish lady, second daughter of the late E.J.Harding, Cork, of great personal beauty and charming manners. They had two sons and three daughters one of the latter continued to live with her father after the death of her mother in 1879. (15. Condensed)

Prov.XXXI.28.
Unveil thy bosom faithful tomb !
Take this new treasure to thy trust
And give these sacred relicts room
Awhile to slumber in the dust.

Nor pain, not grief, nor anxious fear,
Invades thy bounds; no mortal woes
Can reach the forms that slumber here
And Angels watch their soft repose.

So Jesus slept : Gods dying Son
Pass'd thro' the grave, and bless'd the bed
Rest thou, dear saint, till from His throne
The morning break, and pierce the shade.

Eleonora Redwood, York Cres. bur. May 31 1842, 66 yrs. (9)
Abraham Redwood, b. 1728, owned a moiety of Cassanda Garden plantation in Antigua, m. Susan Honeyman and at his death between 1804-6, in Duchess St. Marylebone, left an only son Langford Redwood, who was living in 1829 in U.S.A. and may be identical with the above. The following may have been a son :-
1848, Lately. Suddenly, on his passage from Antigua, aged 27, Langford W.L. Redwood, esq. of Cassada Gardens, in that island, son-in-law of Miles Braithwaite, esq of Hythe, Kent. (G.M., 335.)
The following curious communication appeared in the Bath Chronicle :-
1772, Dec. 24. There is now living in Antigua a person whose name is really as follows : Jasperus Van Clump Humbert Lumbert Lambert Clump Jacobus Lockman Jonas Langford Redwood. Our readers will hardly give credit to this article of intelligence, unless they happen to recollect to what a pitch of absurdity this affair was carried by the Puritans from whom these Colonists were descended.

See pedigree of Redwood in "Antigua," iii. 46. (7)

Chas Smerdon, Surgeon 9 Mall. (16)
Chas Smerdon M.R.C.S. - Although possibly quite unkown, even by name, to the present generation, this was a well known figure in the 1840s, 1850s and 1860s and had a large practice in Clifton and Bristol. He wore his hair, which was of a sandy hue, closely cropped, and very slight side whiskers, always appeared in public dressed in black, of old-fashioned cut, wearing a large frill, and shoes with large bows on them. He was quite the picture of an old-fashioned family doctor, like you read in novels or see on the stage; was very brusque and abrupt in manner, but a very kind-hearted man, and many were the generous actions he performed in an unobtrusive way. He had a peculiar nervous affection of distorting his features when talking to anyone, most disconcerting to his hearers, but apparently not troubling him at all. He married, but had no family, and lived a great part of his life in the West Mall, Clifton, where he had for partners the late John Beames Burroughs * and William Cross, both of whom afterwards practiced alone. He was one of the old school of medical men who believed in bleeding, blistering, and much dosing his patients, for almost every ailment under the sun, but he was so strait-forward, kind and good-hearted, and so amusing in his ways and manners, that he was greatly beloved by a large circle of patients and friends, by whom his death, at a good old age, was deeply lamented, and of him it may be said with truth we shall, probably, "never look on his like again." Wm Mathias, banker, Albermarle Row, b Pembrokshire, bur. Mar. 9 1878.
Eliz. Mathias, 15 Oldfield Pl. Hotwells, b Pembrokeshire, bur. Feb. 3 1910. (9 & 19)
There seems to be a disparity between the dates of Elizabeth's death and burial. (Ed)
Wm Mathias was a beatle-browed, somewhat sardonic-looking man, above the middle height, with stooping shoulders, and of sturdy build, almost invariably acompanied by his daughter - a tall, spare women, of faded, weary aspect.

He was a widower, a great part of his life, and had been engaged in banking business in Wales in his early years. He was universally known as "The General," from the numerous battles he had fought in the local Police and Assize Courts in connection with the rights of way at Boyce's Avenue and Victoria Street to Victoria Square, Clifton. Over this the General kept jealous guard, and many were the disputes which arose between him and persons he considered to be violating his rights of way, and he must have spent hundreds if not thousands of pounds in defence of his rights and adjoining property - Boyce's Buildings, erecting walls, gates, railings, and other barriers.

He was an eccentric, peculiar man in many respects, but not so black as he was painted; very careless about his dress and appearance, usually wearing dark coloured shabby clothes, and tall hat. He was very positive and dogmatic, outspoken to a fault, putting on much the style of the late Dr Johnson in his language and manner.

The writer had much to do with him at one time and another, and found him, although obstinate, and often quite unreasonable when on the subject of Boyce's Buildings, an honourable man in his dealings, and though a determined stickler for what he considered his rights, disposed to pay his way and do his duty according to his lights.

Owing to large sums spent on litigation, which no persuasion could induce him to forgo, itis to be feared his latter days were not pleasant as they should have been, and his daughter , who survived him, when he died, at an advanced age, suffered the effects for the remainder of her life.

He lived in Albermarle Row, Granby Hill, and besides his property at Boyce's Buildings owned, one of the houses in the Royal York Crescent. William Brice, the Magistrates' Clerk, whom he called "Dictator of Bristol"; Daniel Burges, then Town Clerk; and William Bateman Reed, who had built many of the houses in Victoria Square (which he always referred to by the name given to it in the origial deeds, as "Ferney Close"), were his special adversions, and many and bitter were the wordy encounters he had with each and all of those persons. The General boasted he had never been beaten on points of law, and he was an indomitable opponent, who thoroughly enjoyed a fight, and never shrank from entering into one, whatever the odds against him might be.

Undoubtedly, he was one of the most noted inhabitants of Clifton in his time, and quite a character in his way. Almost daily he used to put in an appearance at the Adam and Eve Tavern, Wine Street, where he would hold forth to his cronies on things in general and the doings of his opponents in particular, always making reference to himself in the third person by his surname, in a manner adopted by monarchs and nobleman. John Clarke, York Cres. (9)
F.F.B.J. Sept. 25 - Jn Clark Esq.of 41 Royal Cres. & of Stow Lawn in Co. Stafford. He was formerly an officer of Marines & on active service for many yrs: he was a widower & m. the only child of - Pountney Esq. of Stafford. On Tues. an inquest was held at Salisbury by G.R. Corfe Esq. coroner on the body of Jn Clark Esq. a gent. residing in Clifton who received severe injuries by the upsetting of the Celerity Bristol Coach at Hill nr the above town on the 9th Aug. last. It appeared by the evidence of several witnesses that great blame attached to the coachman (Barnabus Faulkner) who through carelessness & want of proper precautions drove against a waggon laden with chaldrons of coals. It was proved, that, at the time when the coach came in contact with the waggon there was at least 5 or 6 ft of road to spare. Mr Clark was thrown from the coach over a paling into a garden & had his knee dislocated besides receiving severe internal bruises from which he languished in great misery until Sunday last when death put an end to his sufferings. Verdict by Jury, manslaughter against Barnabus Faulkner. The coroner issued a warrant for the apprehension of the offender but as yet he has eluded the vigilance of the officers - Salisbury Journal.

Wm Chant, grocer & tea dealer, b. Queen Camel, Sion Hill. (16) d. Portland Nursery, Kingsdown bur. Nov. 22 1880. (9) In 1851 he was living at 1 Fielding-pl with w. Mary & children Mary A. 8, Wm 7, Emily 3, all b. Clifton. (19)
Mary Chant b. Leytonstone, Essex. (19) d. Kingsdown bur. June 21 1889. (9)
Wm Chant's sister was Thurza Chant b. Queen Camel 1805 living 1871. Wm's parents were Geo. & Edith of Queen Camel, Somt. Mary Chant's mother Mary Anne Browne b. Carlisle, Cumberland 1781, was a lodging house keeper at 1 Clifton Pl. with 1 servant in 1861. Wm & Mary & their 5 children lived with her.
William Chant advertised his business as "Family Tea, Grocery, Italian and General Fruit Warehouse" at 2 Clifton Place and later at 16 Regent Place. He used the Bristol Coat of Arms at the top and followed it by the following rhymes:-

MY COFFEE.
Always the same.

What article, by me supplied
Is term'd the Breakfast table's Pride
While gaining patrons far and wide?
MY COFFEE.
I've said my Teas are number One,
(Which I have proved to all around;)
And I can say they still abound
MY COFFEE.
As sure as my name's Chant you'll find
This Coffee suited to your mind.
And often will you wish to grind
MY COFFEE.
In flavour 'tis the very best,
And you will drink it with a zest,
Whenever you may please to test

MY COFFEE.
Hence it is noted far and wide,

And called the Breakfast table's Pride
By every body who has tried
MY COFFEE.

Many parties in business have merited blame,
On account of their not being "always the same,"
But censure like this, as the public will grant,
Applies not at all to the dealings of CHANT.

W. CHANT in his business is all of a piece,
And from any such stigma may claim a release,
Rest assured that he would not dare publish his name,
If he did not intend to be "always the same."

All those whc have dealt in his Warehouse for years,
Declare that this recommendation appears;
If today you have cause to speak well of his Teas,
Tomorrow you'll find they will equally please.

CHANT makes it a rule that he'll never go back,
But stand No. 1, in his prime Green and Black,
For years he has proved that he makes this his aim,
And the public can say that he's "always the same."

Richard Giles, druggist, Royal York Crescent, b. Tewkesbury. In 1851 living with w. Sarah 37, b. Berkeley, s. Richard W. 27, b. Clifton, apprentice, Geo. Gibbons 16, b. Cheltenham, John Honeybourne 21, chemist's porter, b. Thornbury & 2 servants. (19)
Richard Giles carried on business as a chemist at the end of Royal York Crescent, Clifton, and having lost his hair and teeth in early age, appeared a much older man than he really was, and was known as "Old Giles." He was above medium height, of amiable and kindly disposition, and immensely fond of young people, great numbers of whom were daily inveigled into his shop to be regaled with barley sugar and all kinds of fruit lozenges and drops which at that time were principally obtained of chemists, as there were no sweet shops of the present style, and few confectioners kept more than a limited assortment. Old Giles was a strong politician of the Tory persuasion. A Guardian of the old Clifton Union and an active member of the committee of the Zoological Gardens, taking great delight in the many fetes and galas held in conjunction with Foresters, Oddfellows, Shepherds, Teetotalers, and others of the Friendly Societies which at that time always had their annual outings in the gardens, over 20,000 persons attending on some occasions. The writer remembers some poultry show was held there, all the eggs laid by the birds on exhibition were taken to the Committee Room and Old Giles was kept hard at work compounding egg flip for the refreshment of the Committee and their friends, and he thoroughly enjoyed the job, and turned out some excellent stuff. He was a large shareholder in the Great Western Railway Co. and left one son, the late Richard William Giles, who succeeded to the business so long carried on by his father, and was a man of great ability, but never attained the popularity of "Old Giles." He was afterwards called to the Bar, and died a few years since leaving a widow and family. (15)

Here lie the remains of
HENRY COLE
Who died on the 22nd of March 1797
Aged 1 Year and 10 Months.
Secure from storms here rests a tender flowr
Early removed from black Misfortunes Power
Short tho its bloom the opening bud began
To promise fair when ripened into man.
Yet lovelier far, twill to perfection rise

Unfold its charms and flourish in the skies.

Also of his brother
JAMES ARTHUR
who died on the 19th Novr 1797 Aged 9 Months.

Beneath this stone are also deposited
the remains of their Mother
MARGARET COLE
Relict of THOMAS COLE Esquire of the County of Kilkenny Ireland.
She died at the Salisbury Tower, Windsor Castle on the 1st August 1840 Aged 73.
At her own particular desire she is here interred
Clifton having been further endeared to her as the birthplace of her youngest Son who died abroad, and as the last spot where she enjoyed his society.

Peaceful she rests, all care all sorrow o'er
The fleeting joys of life are now no more;
To each afflictive mandate from her God
In deep humility, she kiss'd the rod,
Devoutly pray'd to be receiv'd in Heaven'
And through her Saviour's merits be forgiven.

Beneath this Stone are also deposited the remains of
MATILDA COLE
eldest daughter of the above, who died at Tunbridge Wells,
on the 28th May 1845.
Yes, thou wert ripe for the Redeemer's call,
Thy lamp was burning brightly to the last;
Pure was the heart, for God was all in all,
Calmly from life to death thy spirit past.

Louis De Ridder, Leicester Pl. bur. Feb. 25 1958. (9)
Condensed from the [Weston Daily Press] November 1933 - Death of Mr L.E. De Ridder, at Newbridge Towers, Bath. He was born at Lympsham near Weston-s-Mare and came to Bristol in 1872, he became an ardent supporter of the dockisation of the River Avon, he was strongly opposed to the 1892 Docks Bill and the new docks at Avonmouth. He fought two elections as candidate of Clifton Ward on the City Council, but was unsuccessful but the third time he had a majority of 500. He many times contributed to the correspondence columns of the Weston Daily Press. At one time he lived in Bournmouth but retired to Bath He supported the British-Israelite Federation.
He was named after his Grandfather who was naval aide-de-camp to Napoleon I and a member of one of the oldest noble families in French Flanders who was granted nobility in 780 A.D. for saving the life of the then King of France at the Battle of Neustrie.
It is believed that Mr L.E. De Ridder's father was Monsieur Louis de Ridder who served in the French Navy as an officer. He was taken prisoner of war in a frigate and kept parole of honour at Brecon where he continued nine years and married a Welsh lady. He returned to France in 1814 and found all his relations were dead, he came to England and settled in Bristol and became a teacher of languages. He died suddenly in his lodgings on Feb. 21 1858.
